Head of Marketing for Syngenta Canada

Fernando Olea is the Head of Marketing for Syngenta Canada, where he applies his background in both science and business to find new ways to create value for Canadian growers. He is able to make connections between the company's innovation pipeline and the tools needed to continually advance the way we produce quality food in an efficient and sustainable manner.

Fernando holds a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture from the Universidad Austral de Chile, and earned both an MBA in Agribusiness and a Masters in Biotechnology and Toxicology from the University of Guelph.

Syngenta Canada is an agribusiness whose ambition is to be the most collaborative and trusted team in agriculture, providing leading seeds and crop protection innovations to enhance the prosperity of farmers and ensure the continued sustainability of agriculture.
