

Christina Stroud

Head of Corporate Affairs for Syngenta Canada

Christina Stroud is the Head of Corporate Affairs for Syngenta Canada where she leads the business sustainability, government and industry relations, and communication elements of the Syngenta business.

As a collaborative and strategic communication professional, Christina effectively advances Syngenta Canada business objectives. She is skilled at building stakeholder relationships and finding opportunities that lead to positive outcomes for the agriculture industry. Before joining Syngenta in 2019, Christina held senior communication and marketing roles within the agriculture sector spanning 20 years.

Christina earned her BA from Wilfrid Laurier University. She is a member of both the Acceptance Communications Trust (ACT) Committee, and the Government Relations Committee with CropLife Canada; a steering committee member for the National Index on Agri-Food Performance; and a member of the Corporate Leaders with the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Syngenta Canada is an agribusiness whose ambition is to be the most collaborative and trusted team in agriculture, providing leading seeds and crop protection innovations to enhance the prosperity of farmers and ensure the continued sustainability of agriculture.
